Boston Medical Center Health System Welcomes Good Samaritan Medical Center and St. Elizabeth's Medical Center into Health System

Boston Medical Center Health System has announced that Good Samaritan Medical Center and St. Elizabeth's Medical Center are officially operating as part of its health system, stabilizing compassionate and equitable care at both hospitals.

"Good Samaritan Medical Center and St. Elizabeth's Medical Center are invaluable resources in their communities," said Alastair Bell, MD, President & CEO of BMC Health System. "We are proud today to welcome the patients and communities served by both hospitals into our health system. Together, with the highly skilled clinicians and staff at each hospital, we will work to ensure stability and as seamless a transition as possible for patients, with a long-term focus on sustainability across our health system."

Over the past several weeks, BMC Health System has been meeting with the leadership of Good Samaritan and St. Elizabeth's, preparing employees to join the health system, and putting plans in place to minimize disruption to patient care during the transition. Patients at Good Samaritan and St. Elizabeth's can continue receiving care in their communities with their trusted providers.

The integration of the two hospitals with BMC Health System builds on Boston Medical Center's existing clinical relationship with St. Elizabeth's and deep presence in Brockton through the Brockton Behavioral Health Center. The integration also maintains access and continuity of care for the many members of the health system's WellSense Health Plan, who are patients at Good Samaritan and St. Elizabeth's.

Since then, the vacant property has been transformed by Darrin DeCoste and Stoneridge Mutual Properties. The building abuts the downtown's MBTA Commuter Rail station, offering quick and easy access to Boston, and soon to be extended down to Fall River and New Bedford with the additions to South Coast Rail. Centre Station is next to Stoneridge's recently completed Commercial Station which offers an additional 24-units of housing in the downtown area.

Red Apron Charcuterie is a proud women-owned and Latin-owned business inspired by my love for tapas, charcuterie, and bringing joy through food. I'm Ana Rojas, originally from Lima, Peru, and my journey has been one of resilience and reinvention. After 24 years in international business and facing life's challenges, I turned my passion for entertaining into a heartfelt venture. Each charcuterie box reflects my Latin heritage, creativity, and commitment to quality, using only products I truly love. Building my business "box by box" has been rewarding, and I'm honored to share joy, connection, and flavor through every creation.
