Boston Medical Center Health System Unveils New Names for Good Samaritan and St. Elizabeth's Medical Centers

The shared brand identity will help patients easily recognize and access trusted, clinically excellent care across BMC Health System hospitals.

Boston Medical Center Health System is proud to announce the renaming of two of its hospitals, as the system advances its vision of high-quality, accessible, and sustainable healthcare in the region.

Good Samaritan Medical Center in Brockton is now Boston Medical Center – South (BMC South) and St. Elizabeth's Medical Center in Brighton is now Boston Medical Center – Brighton (BMC Brighton). St. Elizabeth's and Good Samaritan's associated offsite physician practices will transition to BMC Health.

"Our vision for a unified health system, rooted in expert care and access for our communities, is steadily taking shape," said Alastair Bell, MD, MBA, President & CEO of BMC Health System. "We are creating a shared identity across all of our hospitals that stands for clinical excellence, trust, accessibility, and compassionate patient care."

Consistent branding across BMC Health System hospitals ensures patients know they will receive high-quality, equity-led care. BMC Health System gathered input from patients, employees, and community members to help shape the new names.

"We're honored to work alongside our system hospitals who are also devoted to mission-driven care. Bringing our hospitals under one brand sends a strong signal about that shared commitment," said Paul C. Smith, President of BMC Brighton. "We look forward to building on our more than 100-year legacy in Brighton as the foundation of an even brighter future."

"Today is a proud day for our hospital as we take this next integration step into BMC Health System," said Matthew Hesketh, President of BMC South. "We are incredibly proud of our long history in Brockton and look forward to expanding patient care access to more than 20 other communities along the Route 24 corridor."

Over the next weeks and months, the new names and logos will be incorporated into digital and physical touch points across BMC Brighton, BMC South, and associated BMC Health practice locations.

BMC Health System assumed operations of the two hospitals on October 1, 2024.

The Metro South Chamber of Commerce and the New England Real Estate Journal (NEREJ) brought together business leaders, real estate professionals, and public officials on October 16 at the Shaw's Center in Brockton for an informative summit exploring development and redevelopment opportunities across the region.

The program featured a keynote address by Massachusetts Secretary of Housing and Livable Communities Juana B. Matias, who shared insights on housing and community development. Attendees also heard from a panel of experts representing state and local housing policy, economic development, nonprofit housing, and private-sector real estate.

Moderated by Bridgewater State University President Fred Clark, the panel featured Eric Shupin, CEO of the Citizens' Housing and Planning Association (CHAPA); Andrew Mikula, Chief Housing Economist and Senior Housing Fellow at the Pioneer Institute for Public Policy Research; Dr. Eliza Wilson, Director of Economic Development for the City of Brockton; Rob Corley, CEO of NeighborWorks Housing Solutions; Jay Pateakos, Executive Director of Economic and Community Development for the City of Taunton; and Joseph Goncalves of New Vision Enterprises.

The discussion offered attendees valuable perspectives on housing availability, redevelopment, Opportunity Zones, and the policies and partnerships that can help communities attract investment and support sustainable growth.

The summit provided an opportunity for attendees to learn from experienced industry professionals and public-sector leaders, exchange ideas, and connect with others working to shape the region's future.

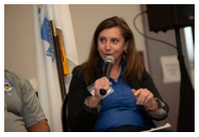

Sponsored by Trinity Development and Management, the event continued the Chamber's partnership with NEREJ to bring timely discussions on real estate, housing, infrastructure, and economic development to the Metro South business community.

Powertown Announces Battery Initiative in Brockton

Powertown

Elson Bankoff, Co-Founder of Powertown, during a roundtable at the historic Edison building in Brockton announcing the battery project

As electricity costs continue to challenge Massachusetts businesses, Massachusetts-based energy company Powertown is working with Brockton businesses to deploy battery systems designed to help reduce electricity costs during periods of peak demand.

The company's systems, known as Powerblocks, store electricity when prices are lower and discharge power when a facility's energy demand peaks. This approach targets demand charges, which utilities assess based on a business's highest rate of electricity use during a billing period. Powertown pays for, installs, and maintains the systems at no upfront cost to participating businesses, receiving a share of the resulting savings.

Participating businesses include Barbour Corporation, Crown Uniform & Linen Service, and North Star Distributors. Barbour, which has manufactured products in Brockton since 1892, expects to save approximately $24,000 annually. Crown Uniform & Linen Service, a family-owned company operating a 94,000-square-foot facility on Battles Street, estimates annual savings of approximately $30,000. North Star Distributors, which supplies food and beverages to businesses on Martha's Vineyard, expects to save approximately $10,000 annually. These figures are estimates provided by the company and participating businesses.

Powertown has announced plans to expand the initiative to additional commercial and municipal properties in Brockton and surrounding communities, with an investment target of $6.9 million by 2032. The company estimates that the broader network could save participating businesses $4.6 million and reduce municipal energy costs by $1.2 million over 10 years. Initial battery installations are expected to begin in early 2027.

The initiative was announced at the historic Edison Electric Illuminating Company complex in Brockton, highlighting the city's history with electricity. Read more about the initiative and the technology in The Boston Globe or visit www.powertownusa.com.
